18:00 Thu 9 Jan 2020

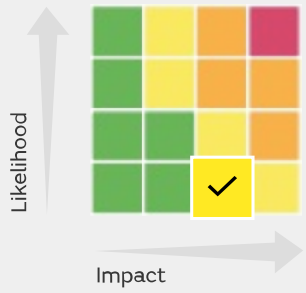
Further details

A spell of very strong winds is expected to spread from the south-west across Wales and many parts of England through Thursday morning. Gusts of 50-60 mph are possible for many areas, with gusts of 70 mph in places.

Winds will begin to ease across Wales through late morning, and across the rest of the area by evening.

Reason for cancellation

Whilst a windy period is still expected the strength of the winds no longer looks unusual for the time of year. This reduces the likelihood and severity of impacts.



Very low likelihood of medium impacts
